Prospective Volunteer Bible Teacher Questionnaire

Dear Prospective Teacher,

Thank you so very much for your interest in teaching Bible at BBC. We are exceptionally serious about the responsibility to teach the Word of God. The Bible is clear that those who teach the Word of God are held to a higher standard before God. James 3.1 describes those who teach the Bible to others. My brethren, be not many masters, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation. James is warning novices from rushing into the responsibility of teaching the Bible because God will judge those who teach others with a greater degree of accountability.

While this warning is important to reflect on, consider also that God the Judge has gifted some in the body of Christ with the ability to teach His Word well, and those who choose to ignore the gift God has given them will be judged with an even harsher standard for they have taken the talent God has given them and buried it in the ground for fear of God (Matthew 25). Furthermore, James also tells his readers that if any one (including Bible teachers) asks God for wisdom, God promises to answer those prayers for guidance, understanding and the ability to correctly draw application from the Bible for the 21st Century. So while the secret things still belong to the Lord (Deut. 29.29), the Bible teacher is not left to his own devices to get it right—God promised his disciples that the Holy Spirit would guide them in all truth (John 16:13). The teacher of God’s Word realizes that he will often need to spend vast amounts of time on his knees in prayer. Do you realize that before you can share God’s Word with others, a teacher must be faithful to personal Bible study, submitting and applying these truths to his or her personal life?

The purpose of this survey is to help ensure that BBC has the right men and women teaching its Bible classes. Please answer these questions slowly and thoughtfully as you consider your role as a Disciple of Christ; and, remember, there aren’t any perfect teachers. The Apostle Paul concluded that he worked harder than all the others and at the same time he said it was the grace of God that gave him strength to be all that God called him to be (1 Corinthians 15:10). Likewise, you may feel unqualified and insufficient for such a task, but be encouraged that this is just the mindset in which God gets all the glory because you readily acknowledge your need for His Grace.
